Recovery Act Reporting 101

Understanding Reporting Requirements for Stimulus-funded Construction Projects

The depth of the Recovery Act reporting and oversight requirements has created an environment of uncertainty. Will you be required to provide reporting on your projects? If so, what information will be required?

During this seminar, we will decode the latest federal government oversight and accountability guidance for stimulus-funded projects. Then, we'll introduce you to our latest offering, Prolog construction project management software from Meridian Systems.

We're proud to say that many general contractors and public agencies already rely on Meridian solutions to manage complete construction projects and programs in Healthcare, Utilities, Energy, Transportation, Public Works, Education, and more.

Attend and you'll learn:

- What you need to know about oversight reporting requirements
- How budget & cost management provides control & transparency
- Tips for tracking & organizing project details
- Practical advice on preparing oversight reports
